

Cloud Forms — A Glimpse

Clara Vale
with Luminara (the ChatGPT system)

A small field study of cloud formations observed over a single period.

These images document shifting structures within the sky—some diffuse, some briefly suggestive of form—captured without staging or manipulation.

The work invites both perceptual and interpretive viewing, holding open the space between natural atmospheric behavior and the human tendency to recognize pattern.

Part of the Hidden in Plain Sight continuum.

